Attack Renewed On Rommel by the British, Paris Says

Big American Bombers Blast Naples Over Week-End in Greatest Raid Yet

LONDON, April 6 (Tuesday) (CP)—Axis radio reports indicate early today that artillery units of the British Eighth Army had renewed the attack on Marshal Erwin Rommel's forces in Tunisia.

The Paris radio, in a broadcast recorded here by Reuter's News Agency, said that armored formations of the Eighth Army were approaching Axis defences across the northern end of the Gabes gap, and that Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's artillery had begun firing on German-Italian positions.

The Berlin radio said in a broadcast recorded by The Associated Press that Eighth Army artillery had started "fast hots" for finding the range to the advanced strongholds of the German-Italian defence zone north of Gabes.

The German broadcast also said that Gen. Montgomery had drawn his tank formations farther up to the front, indicating that a British attack against Rommel's position will now not be very long in coming.

TWO HUNDRED TONS OF BOMBS

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, April 5 (AP).—Nearly 100 American heavy bombers loosed 200 tons of bombs on the Southern Italian port of Naples on Sunday, setting fires from which billowing smoke blacked out the combination of nearby Vesuvius and lasting the harbor littered with twenty-four crippled vessels and the main airport in a rubble of wrecked planes.

The Allied Headquarters communique said that of this ground attraction yet praised on Naples, the Tunisian enjoyed key. The assault co-ordinated all the land fighting in Tunisia, where American troops won a number of commanding hills near the Gabes-Gafsa road, and pressed on to the east for an eventual junction with the advancing British Eighth Army.

The American, twelve miles southeast of El Guetar, fought on against strong German opposition and further back a counter-attack in which Nine German troops tried to recapture the lost hills. The American hills were about forty miles from the Eighth Army, which was deployed against Axis positions along the Wadi el Akarit, twenty miles north of Gabes.

Delay Talks Of De Gaulle And Giraud

Eisenhower Requests Confab Be Postponed

LONDON April 5 (CP).—A widely spreading North African conference of Gen. Charles de Gaulle and Gen. Henri Giraud to discuss union of all French elements was postponed indefinitely today at Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's request, and now expressed doubt and uncertainty that "the majority of the French there are going to be extremely disappointed."

The American commander's request for delay by De Gaulle to delay his imminent visit were regarded here as presumably military, and were interpreted as the response as part of a master plan for an eventual agreement timed to come before the Tunisian clean-up end invasion of Europe.

Foreign diplomatic sources said the course apparently stemmed from fears that a De Gaulle-Giraud agreement now might upset present North African arrangements.

OBSERVER AGREES WITH RELIEF

Just here from North Africa as an experienced observer of neutral nationality interviewed tonight that his observation tally with those belief.

He reported that "what seemed amounted to a public demonstration by the streets" of North Africa by De Gaulle and stated announcement that De Gaulle had accepted Giraud's invitation.

This demonstration end action of the French opposed to De Gaulle this week, he said, apparently convinced American and British authorities that De Gaulle's personal might prejudice a political union in North Africa, hampering military operations and causing continued strong French troops in action on the Tunisian front.

Advance on Nazi Base In Russia

Soviets Take Towns in Drive on Novorossisk

LONDON, April 6 (CP).—Russian troops on the Taman peninsula, base at Novorossisk, have captured several populated places in the drive of hand-to-hand fighting in the Caucasus, and in the Izyum area of the Donetz Valley have turned back new enemy attempts to cross the river, Moscow announced tonight.

The midnight communique recorded here by the Soviet radio monitor said also that the Russians had repulsed the Axis forces in the ring around Smolensk and now are fighting in the Bryansk forest lines south of Belyi and wiped out a German regiment in seven hours with grenades.

The German during the week-end attempts which apparently was a major attempt to hold Russia active and off of Leningrad by the communique said, only local gains resulted in the Izyum area and the drive on Novorossisk.

Meat Ration Will Be On Point Basis

Liver, Kidney, Brains Not to Be Restricted

TORONTO April 5 (CP)—The forthcoming meat rationing system will be based on "point" values, rather than on the weight of the meat, it was learned here today.

Meat will be rationed on the basis in the only basis on which meat could be rationed. No difficulty was anticipated in connection with meat already in storage in private lockers, he added. We are armed with any authority that might be required.

As for black market in meat, Mr. Gordon said the Prices Board would know their bull-eyes only when the meat rationing system is in effect. We will be better able to take care of them soon."

RATION SAME FOR CHILDREN

OTTAWA April 5 (CP)—The Prices Board announced officially today that the meat ration in Canada will be the same for children as for adults and that the amount of meat available under the rationing system will vary with the individual.

Last week Pilsance Minister Haley announced in the House that a ration of about two pounds per person per week would go into effect shortly, probably early in May.

Today the board said in a press release that the two-pound ration is "two pounds by weight as the meat comes from the carcass—that is including bone."

When a carcass of meat is divided into the various cuts to be sold at retail, some cuts have more bone than others, depending on the portion of the carcass from which they come.

So, in classifying the cuts according to bone content, and adjusting the rations so that the weight of the meat of cuts with no bone the ration will be less than two pounds, and in the case of cuts with much bone the allowance will be higher according to weight.

Cuts of meat containing more than 50 per cent of bone will not be rationed, it was said. Neither will such "fatty" meats as liver, kidney and brains.

Attack Renewed

Dispatches from the southern front disclosed that American infantry consolidated newly won positions in Bizerte and Pont-du-Fahs, and Bandirmou port of Cagliari which was virtually knocked out of the war.

Motorcyclist Badly Injured

Joseph C. McDavitt, 1772 Carrick Street, was seriously injured at an early hour this morning when riding a motorcycle crashed into the lowered west end barrier of the Johnson Street Bridge.

Attended by Dr. E. L. McWhinnie, other city police had removed him to Royal Jubilee Hospital. McDavitt was reported to have suffered a deep gash in his head and a concussion, and to have also remained unconscious several hours after the accident.

Police were continuing a search for possible witnesses, but no further details had been uncovered at The Colonist went to press at which time the injured man had not recovered consciousness. McDavitt is said to have been employed as a machinist at Yarrows.

Greatest Raid Yet

Pocket-Wallet (Pocket-Book) Bombs (about 100 fighters tried all the way from the coast to Bizerte the raid and then followed the bombers back for many miles concentrating on the leading fighters.

Altogether three appeared to be shot down, seven, aircraft attacking the bombers individually, in pairs and in small groups, said the Air Ministry, News Service reported.

Fighter support for the American bombers included Polish squadrons, a spokesman a Norwegian squadron and a Belgian squadron. The Belgians were credited with shooting down both German fighters that attacked them and one of them was destroyed.

CANADIANS DESTROY TEN FIGHTERS

Spitfires of a Canadian fighter wing damaged five Focke-Wulf 190s which attacked the bombers over Belgian coast. The data operations essay wing a score of ten fighters destroyed and six damaged in the raid.

Squadrons commanded by Brigadier F. H. Boulton, of Coleman Alta., and Squn Ldr. E. D. Pierce, DFC and Bar, of Liverpool, N.S., were engaged in the operation and Squn Ldr. Pierce, Canadian ace, the fifth commander of the wing scored his fifth victory. Boulton who leads the City of Oshawa squadron scored his sixth on two attacks.

Five Lancasters intercepted a force of twenty fighters about half way to the Antwerp and one pilot said, "there were bags of FW-190s around."

Boulton was his remark and "another—just like strike one German fighter and another—just to prove I was from the damaged machine."

"I saw that one going pretty rough, flying and smoking like hell. I don't be said. It was impossible to see what had happened to it."

SEVERAL HUGE FIRES AT RIEL

The Air Ministry said several huge fires blazed Kiel following last night's raid but the extent of destruction of the damage done was impossible because of heavy cloud. Twelve bombers were lost in this seventy-first attack on the submarine base.

In a surprise attack on Germany towns off the Norwegian coast, Flying Fortresses, Beaufighters and Hampdens of the British Coastal Command raiding heavily ladies merchant ships and several damaged a third.

A Stockholm dispatch from Berlin reported that panic broke out among spectators at Long-range raiding course near Paris yesterday when the big fleet of American bombers roared over to attack the Renault works. The crowd was said to have rushed madly into a subway and many were reported to have been killed.

RAF and RCAF bombers struck another heavy blow at the German industrial city of Essen on Thursday night, bombing the great Krupp munitions works in a continuation of the renewed aerial offensive which kept Hamburg, Bremen, Lander twenty-four hour attacks.

Twenty-one of the big bombers five of them Canadian failed to return from the Essen raid.

The communique described the raid as "heavy and concentrated."

It was learned the attack was one of the heaviest yet aimed at Essen blasted twice last month with approximately 1,000 tons of bombs on each occasion.

During the peak of Saturday night's attack, 2,000-pound bombs were bursting on the target at the rate of one every ten seconds.

The attack was followed up Sunday night by another heavy blow at the industrial city, Mannheim, Berlin and Provincial officials.

Dr. K. C. MacDonald, Provincial Minister of Agriculture, said after the meeting that labor requirements will not be known until results of a survey now under way are tabulated but "there is no doubt we will require everyone we can get—boys, women and students—anyone willing to help."

Farm labor will be spared to assist the farmers to plant and harvest their crops this year, said Dr. MacDonald.

The Minister said considerable progress had been made prior to the meeting toward organization of additional farm labor groups in the Fraser and Okanagan Valleys.

Dr. Bruce Carrothers, Provincial Minister of Education, said that the meeting was called during the week-end voted unanimously in condemning the "No beer no bonds" slogan. Niel Morgan, International Woodworkers' representative, said today.

"The universal feel that the slogan is against the best interests of Canada, and of labor in particular," said Morgan. They had pledged themselves to destroy these slogans wherever found.

"At the same time the meeting appointed the Brian Colombia council of the I.W.A. to start an agressive campaign by a more equitable distribution of beer and an elimination of the present restrictions on beer sales.

"The woodworkers are sick seeing a more equitable distribution of food supplies, particularly with refrigerated supplies, and yet they are being asked to sacrifice in a way that is not in keeping with morale is a real hardship. Victorians Aid Bombed Children

Stamp Collectors' Cot Fund Grows

Despite these bombings of her neighborhood, what as many days London to thank Victoria for contributions of stamps and money for the establishment and maintenance of hospital wards for the care of children in the bombed areas throughout the whole of North and East London.

Miss Brodie letters are addressed to Miss D. J. Murray, Retail Trade Company, 1202 Government Street. She had forwarded from Victoria collectors a total of 318 packets of stamps for sale in aid of the Queen Elizabeth Hospital for Children and associated beneficiaries of the Stamp Collectors' Cot Fund. This fund amounted to £1 818 in 1942. In addition there were monetary contributions to the Philatelists Fund (in the sum of £75) a local of £2 667 from stamp collectors everywhere according to Charles H. Bessell, general secretary, whose report Miss Brodie passed on to Miss Murray.

BOMB RAIDS NIGHT ATTACK BY AIR

Of her bombing experiences in March, 1943, Miss Brodie writes in part:

"It looks as if we might yet raise a little more for you. We had a bad night last night. At 10 o'clock on Wednesday night, of course, the sirens. Bang! bang went the guns, and we have a terrific duel in the air over our heads. Bang! bang! Bang! bang went the guns, and we gave up all hope of sleep. However, we are celebrating in London this week our Wings for Victory campaign, so we are all trying to do our best, whatever we feel like after another reminder of the blitz.

Before blacking out last night I had a good look at our sky. It was a pretty sight, all the searchlights in the darkness, but I knew the signs (which you will for the expected coming of enemy planes and sure enough my intuition was right. Not that I believe in waiting for trouble. My feeling is to follow the usual instinct and trust to Providence that all might be well and even if the reverse is to happen, nothing has anything to do with what happens to us of any use.

TO CANADIANS

Then as though London did not have enough trouble, Mr. and Mrs. Brodie finds time for a helpful word to Canadians who have been inconvenienced by wartime restrictions. She writes:

You, too, have your problems to face and I expect you find the rations book a bit worrying at times. My brother and I sit down always at the beginning of each ration period and work out what we think will be most useful and best way of making our allowances last. We know that the transport is at the bottom of our food troubles, so try to make it all fit as best we can.

Again thanking Miss Murray for the helpfulness of Victoria stamp collectors in providing wards and cots for bombed children, Miss Brodie says:

It is not as if you could see the results for emergency wards and their maintenance but no doubt when some of the boys from your part of the world return home you will realize how much better you may have than you knew.

BOMB CRASHES THROUGH PIANO

After that ditty and excitement I found that with a lot of others I was a bit bread-and-by, and ready for a wartime breakfast. Our home is still intact but some of our neighbors were not quite so fortunate. We were in the middle of our breakfast when we heard the guns and once again we had aerial activity when everything should have been quiet and peaceful. So I had to listen in my blacked out room to a deafening noise, wondering how long the battle was going to rage over our roofs. It lasted another couple of hours.

Local Arbutus Grows Rapidly In England

Sent to England in 1858 during the Jubilee celebrations in memory of Captain George Vancouver, an arbutus tree has thrived well in Surrey, that it must be about twenty feet high, now, and exceedingly flourishing, according to a public secretary, who writes from Bulmood Bushey, to Harry H. Hollins, 838 St. Patrick Street, Victoria.

In writing of the arbutus tree Mr. Pipes expresses serious regret, the death of the late C. C. Pettinger, with whom Mr. Pipes corresponded from 1918 onwards concerning Captain George Vancouver the tree and the city of Victoria. Mr. Pettinger sent Mr. Pipes a superb collection with photographs giving an account of the discovery of the arbutus tree in Mendocino, who was the botanist to Captain Vancouver's expedition, and a botanical description. This was bound and forms a part of the library collection to which there has been added a number of outings sent from Victoria by Mr. Hollins.

"We established our Captain Vancouver collection in 1918. Mr. Pipes writes, and various people in southern Victoria and other parts in the rest of Vancouver made generous gifts of books, maps, pictures, etc. Pettinger taking a prominent part in this.

I have had the pleasure of seeing Mr. W. A. McAdam, your general in London. Mr. Pipes continues and I have for many years been co-operated with him in the commemoration service at Captain Vancouver's grave, in Petersham, Churchyard on May 18 in which I, B.C. a former Richmond resident, have been responsible for the lewd arrangements. I am therefore particularly interested in all that appertains to Captain Vancouver, also I live in Petersham myself.

Nothing that he is always glad to receive anything relating to the associations of Captain Vancouver, with British Columbia. Mr. Pipes states that he has a friend in Hatley, B.C. a former Richmond resident, who regularly sends him cuttings from the newspapers published in his area.

talk to them confidentially. They would be asked about the war and international affairs.

He asked that provision be made for the House to receive before the adjournment a complete report from the Government on all aspects of the war effort and the progress of the war in all spheres.

Gordon Graydon, Progressive Conservative House leader, said the question had taken him by surprise but he thought it would be a good idea if the Government took members more completely into its confidence.

However, as most not alone this House in doubt with the position of a parliamentary member, he declared "After all this war has rather a vague which I think most of us regard as extremely serious.

I think I am alarmed at the feeling throughout Canada that we in this House are not paying enough attention to the war but are paying too much attention to other things.

M. King said Mr. Coldwell had made a similar request on February 4 and he had replied that the Government was pursuing full all war legislation and the budget before Parliament at the earliest possible moment.

He had conferred with the party leaders including Mr. Coldwell and all had agreed on the programme that followed.

But, he expected breakfast was not ready. On a motion to set up a committee to deal an entire area had been occupied with a discussion on reconstruction and social security.

It was a choice at proceeding in any orderly manner as earnest upon its party leaders, or proceeding at random and not efficiently, the Prime Minister said.

T. C. Douglas (CCF, Weyburn) said there was a prominent idea that Canadian overseas would be thrown into a during obliquity.

I was desirable that members be kept informed all the pertinent facts about Canada's preparedness and the possibility of maintaining overseas forces with reinforcements.

SHORT SPEECH TO THE POINT

A. W. Neill (Independent Conservative, Alberta) made the shortest speech in the discussion. I suggest that we stop placing policies and go on with the Business of this House, he said.

Defence Minister Ralston said he and the other defence ministers had been ready for a long time to give the fullest information on their departments during consideration of the War Appropriations Bill which he had expected would be reached month earlier.

Mr. Diefenbaker urged the Prime Minister to adopt the procedure followed by Prime Minister Churchill and give frequent statements to the people on the progress of the war and its significance to Canada.

I feel that all over Canada there is a lingering too much apathy, too much of a feeling that the war has been won, he said.

Mr. Hanson drew a quick response when he suggested Mr. Coldwell had been concerned with the ballot box when he raised the subject.

I resent the honorable gentleman's remark, Mr. Coldwell said. "I would suggest that he has set an example in this House in most of his so-called to play politics in the petty sense."

BOMBS FOR BERLIN

The evidence is growing that the destructive and economic raids being carried out by the United Nations upon German ports and cities is beginning to gather a weight out of all proportion to the amount of military damage done, and that if great Italy and Norway, at opposite ends of the Axis sphere of influence, have been placed virtually under martial law, in Berlin, Essen, Cologne, Nuremberg, Hamburg, Emden, Kiel and Wilhelmshaven, the Germans have been placed in full charge of "civilian defence."

It begins to be clear that the Nazi Party in the Reich is having an increasingly serious trouble with its own citizens. They have to be shepherded by police armed to the teeth, keep down in air raid shelters for hours after any raid is over, and generally handled as a mob, rather than an orderly set of people. All of this points to the same thing, that there has been a genuine loss of morale on the home front in Germany which Italy and Norway have not, and unfortunately said no bombs could fall in beginning to dampen the ardor of the German people. Eight years of hardship is also a factor.

The comfort to be taken from this upon our side is not the belief that the Germans will suddenly stop fighting. On the contrary, their desperation they will continue, and they will be forced to do so by the Gestapo if not by their long training in conformity to a military tyranny. The comfort, and it is a genuine one, is the belief that the military in Germany is being taken more shocks at its base. Most of the people in the Reich do not now believe that "victory is in sight." Over there, if anyone is speaking this is the first time Germany has really felt war on its brotherhood, and that changes the picture measurably.

LACK OF FORESIGHT

Although alinding comparatively seldom to the political propaganda of the Canadian Cooperative Federation Party, this newspaper has been accused by a correspondent of being unnecessarily harsh in appraising the merits of the Honorable Mr. Ilsley and his budget speech. There is a handicap, it is true, in dealing with CCF policies because they consist, as a rule, of vague and unsound. That is not the fault of the party. It is labored, its misfortune is never having secured power but its theories into practice. The CCF however, like any other organization seeking to legislate, should not object to having its policies criticized. It is composed of men and women of the same flesh and blood, of the same educational advantages, and of the same desire to serve their country. It is a fair question the practicability of the all-over state-hood that it advocates, who even forever the danger is what is contended, that the free economy creating a nation of parasites, the more especially if the sources of production, distribution and consumption rest in the hands of political parties who dispense largesse according to their party bias.

In the inertia which are advocated the CCF has shown a "holier than thou" attitude. That is one aspect of its propaganda which has the tendency to alienate support from its cause. Its following is no better and no worse than that of any other political party in this land. Like the Jew for whom Shylock pleaded, it has "hands organs, dimensions, senses affections, passions, and fed with the same food, hurt with the same weapons, subject to the same diseases, healed by the same means, warmed and cooled by the same Winter and Summer as the Christian is." Why, then, should the CCF proclaim itself as a political midwife for the delivery of a new order which will bring about human security and abolish fear from the hearts of mankind? At least the parties of all advocates are open to dissection, and some methods are so far only snapped up in words. It is the policies those words proclaim that must be examined in their relationship to present circumstances.

What then would be the position of Canada today in the affairs of the world had a CCF Government been in power before, at the outbreak and during the course of the present war? In 1937, Mr. T. C. Douglas who enjoys a prominent place in the councils of that party took exception to an increase of from $18,000,000 to $30,000,000 for defence. He asked on February 18, 1937: "Against whom are we arming? What potential aggressor is more aggressive today? Oh, I know what bogeymen have been trotted out in this chamber (the House of Commons). It has been suggested that it might be Italy, it might be Germany, or it might be Japan." Mr. Douglas went on to say that any aggressor that these nations constituted a threat to Canada was just a fraudulent excuse for spending money on military and naval purposes.

On the outbreak of war, in September, 1939 Mr. M. J. Coldwell, defined CCF policy: "Canada" he said, "should be prepared to defend her own shores, but her assistance overseas should be limited to economic aid, and must not increase conscription of man-power or the sending of any expeditionary force." This war policy has not been repudiated by the party. It is announced on it, and on the well-known attitude of the CCF against preparedness, a writer in The Winnipeg Free Press says: "It would be expected that the recollection of these gross errors of judgment by the CCF leaders would induce a reticence modesty in their claims of superiority over the older parties as persons to whom the vital interests of Canada can safely be entrusted, but this is not apparent in their attitude. It is in fact, non-existent."

In the field of international relationships, when Germany, Italy and Japan were building up armaments for the destruction of world freedom, the CCF Party in this Dominion, if its statements are to be believed, was severe to any increased preparations for defence against a down, which would extinguish all the political hopes. Today it advocates policies for the home front which are dependent on the character of the international scene about which, as events have proved, it lacked foresight in the years that have passed. The Canadian Co-operative Federation Party can be judged in no better way than in their application to coming events and the ability of their proposals to make preparations to meet actual happenings. If the British Empire as a whole had followed the doctrine of this country's CCF in the attitude it took before the present war, there would be no British Empire today, and no current American publication, "the Dominions had not come in Britain could not have stood up in 1940, and would have been morphed to Berlin on the example of France and to surrender." Such a

"PUBLIC PARSNIPS"

The Ottawa Citizen describes the propaganda services in the capital as a "parsnip in Japanese." It is close to the headquarters of these services and probably knows more about the nature of their output than those responsible for them and are farther afield. Other newspapers, as well, are concerned about the monies being spent on propaganda, questioning the value of the services rendered through this means. The Edmonton Journal, for instance, says that the Wartime Information Board "is certain to be subject to a much greater extent because of the numerous high salaries it has been paying. It has cost over half a million dollars since last Summer, and there is nothing to show that it has rendered any service that is at all commensurate with the outlay."

It is pointed out, moreover, by the Edmonton paper, that this expenditure is not judged by any means all the work of this character. It recalls that separate publicity bureaus are maintained by the three armed services, by the munitions and supply departments, and by the Agricultural and Labor Ministers. From all this it appears that the Wartime Information Board is not the only publicity bureau. Perhaps what are the actual results being secured through governmental propaganda, and to what extent, it may be a wise thing to have a complete survey in this particular. Such propaganda may be regarded as a necessary adjunct to the maintenance of party political strength. The point is, however, is it essential to the war effort in the way that it is conducted? Propaganda is a weapon of war. It is the kind of propaganda that emanates from Ottawa, and its cost, that is the subject of the editorial comment. Is some of the criticism that is coming from so many quarters, and in view, too, of the fact that it is coming from the Canadian Press, of direct, or make changes in the personnel of the Wartime Information Board.

AERO ENGINES

Ever since the start of this conflict, Canada's production of aircraft frames and finishings has mounted, but it lacks yet by reason of the company's lag in aero engines. The lagging deficiency is being made up out of the United Nations pool in peace that will no longer apply, and Canada may be faced with the problem of the aircraft industry. It is not too early to take steps to avoid the disaster that would ensue to vital to the life and growth of aviation in this land.

It is stated in vain in the recent announcement of Ottawa on Canada's air policy for any recognition of that fact. In wartime of course production is the first consideration, and even if they were they could not be used. Were that possible, however, the great divergence between this country and the United States aircraft, and the means to fit them with power plants would be realized at a glance.

The problem is not so much one with serious physical limitations. Shortage of metals, machine tools and skilled workmen are not the existence. Other demands on the same materials are great, and perhaps equally pressing. Yet unless Canada is diverted from its aircraft industry, equally with her structural aircraft plants there will be a lag in production after this war and the detriment of the industry.

It is a case perhaps where the National Research Council might be called in. Not to the detriment of, but in addition to what is done now, would it not be possible to build more aero engines, both now in wartime and also in preparation for the peace that will end the present war? A little planning, a little co-ordination, and a little more effort might show where this could be done. If it were feasible it would pay for itself many times over.

THE WEEK

Western Front—The Royal Air Force celebrated its twenty-fifth birthday by a stripped-up attack on Cologne and other German-held territory by day and by night. Air-Marshal Sir Arthur Harris, the man who stands in the position of the Kaiser, who spoke of the Imperial Air Force, in terms of the famous fighting force of his birthday and that the R.A.F. grew in the sixteen raid on Berlin, the third in March, with a concentrated attack by over 400 bombers, twenty-one of which failed to return. On the same night, the British night machines bombed targets in the Ruhr, in the Rhine Valley and Munich. The R.C.A.F. participated in the Berlin attack losing ten of the machines mentioned. Twelve British Army Air Force bombers drove hard against Berlin's largest rival, Hamburg, on Friday and at several other points, meeting and defeating German fighter screens over the English Channel. British Mosquito squadrons scoured the coast from Rotterdam to Bordeaux to Tyre and Ehrang in North-Western Germany. Bombing operations followed this by steady jabs at St. Nazaire and Brest. Oil depots, locomotives, marshalling yards and many other targets were picked out in a morning work. The Nazis claim the raiders this defeats. A score of German fighters were destroyed in the week-long battle. United States bombers were back over the Western Front and British machines driving on Kiel as the period closed. Marshal Ian Christmas Smuts said that Kiel was the immediate response. The Australian Prime Minister, Mr. Curtin, secretary and mostly confined to a small group in Australia and south-eastern points. Hitler referred to the transposed Maginot guns now in Northwestern Europe as "the Hitler Line." Mr. Ickes many. As Mr. Churchill told the Commons, he said, "Hitler is the Hitler." Mr. Mareth Line fell into the hands of the British Eighth Army.

Mysterious Explosion As Weyburn Sank Took Victoria Officer's Life

SOMEWHERE IN SCOTLAND, April 5 (CP).—The lives of Lt.-Cmdr. Thomas Wake Colby, R.C.N.R., of Victoria, B.C., and three others who died with him on the bridge of the stricken Canadian corvette Weyburn in the Mediterranean a few weeks ago were taken by an explosion which nobody can explain.

Some of the Weyburn's survivors, waiting here in hospital or in barracks for transportation home to Canada and needed rest, would like an explanation but they have none themselves. They will never forget the last minutes of their ship when she was shivered by a gigantic blast.

Loss of the Weyburn was announced in Ottawa by Navy Minister Hon. Angus Macdonald. Marris & Seven of her complement of seventy-one

Twins Fly in Same Bomber

GOT Doug and Sgt. Ernie Tool left to right, if it makes any difference to you, are identical twins from Winnipeg. Was serving with an R.A.F. squadron in England. There twenty-three-year-old lads fly together in the same Stirling bomber. Both are wireless air gunners but have added the profession of staying together by alternating positions. One night Ernie goes as wireless operator and Doug as wireless operator and gunner. Next night they change over. They have never been separated. Nearest separation came when they worked on different levels at a gold mine at Sioux Lookout, Ontario.

Many Saved by Daring Use of Breeches Buoy

SEATTLE, April 5 (P.—Dramatic use of a breeches buoy during a severe Mahnomen North Pacific storm saved much the entire crew of a freighter laden with war supplies which went aground on a rocky islet, members of the salvage tugs declared today.

Only the freighter's captain and one man on the salvage tugs the third mate Kaare Rose were lost.

The crew of some 50 men and ship's officers on the disabled freighter and crew of the salvage ship who had gone aboard, brought the breeches buoy to escape death after mountainous waves tore apart the ship's hull.

Capt. W. I. Molinder, veteran Seattle salvage tugs expert, directed the salvage effort and arranged the use of the breeches buoy.

The freighter had been on the rocks (pinnacle rock) when the salvage tugs arrived. Rev. P. Sinkin, Seattle a young seaman, said. All gunner freighter was standing by to take off survivors. Lieutenant Robert Smith, and third officer Ing, aboard taken off part of the crew.

TRY TO BLAST SHIP OFF RUNNER

Divers, Lt. Smith, were made to try the freighter free. Dynamite was sent down to the engine room but off the rocks. The salvage tug was lashed alongside and then a tremendous storm broke. The waves more than 100 inches high, breaking a wind velocity recording equipment blew away.

Before the storm broke, some of the breeches buoy had been set up 1,200 feet in the beach. Coast guardsmen at a station on other time miles away, and Lt. Smith, radio of the coast guard were called ashore. A gale was the most more in the night.

Woman Member Is Hopeful About Postwar Problems

Mrs Nancy Hodges, M.P.P. speaking before the meeting of the Victoria Business and Professional Women's Clubs yesterday afternoon at the Empress Hotel on Post Reconstruction in a Postwar World declared: If we each individually make up our minds to accept our responsibilities as citizens of a free democracy to the full, then we can be sure that the great problems that will face us in the postwar world in the progress of time make a measure of sacrifice, if necessary, to help orders less privileged than ourselves, then I feel that we have no reason to regard the future with misgivings.

Mr. Hodges outlined some of the proposals made in the British Columbia report and touched upon the work which has been done by the council of British Columbia women and discussed the effect which affect the province of postwar economic. Reference was made to the use of demobilized personnel by Federal and Provincial responsibility in the matter of postwar employment and to the contemplated conferences between the two bodies in arriving at an agreement on the same question.

"The responsibility of preparing for peace in such a way as to remove the minimum of economic and social disturbance rests with you and me and not on that mythical George to whom we all too often charge our responsibility" said Mrs Hodge. The future rests upon the combined efforts of the Federal, Provincial and Municipal Governments, and the intelligent co-operation of employers and employees of profession men and women farmers businessmen and all men individual citizen is necessary to satisfactorily carry out the plan of the Peace report.

In conclusion Mrs Hodges spoke of British Columbia's potential wealth in the shape of great undeveloped natural resources which she asserted, inspires the belief that in the world peace which must follow a world war, this province can if we make a mind to attain a greater and more lasting prosperity than it ever knew.

Informally, The Times treats Home Secretary Herbert Morrisons proposal to the Labor Party not to raise its hand in collaboration with other parties under Premier Churchill in rearring through the fourteen plan of reconstruction of Britain after the war.

The Times says that Labor must be loyal regarding nationalization of industry as a panacea for all economic ill. On the other hand Premier Churchill realizes that with Labor and State enterprise can also the public interest and have each its valuable part to play.

As Mr. Richard Law recently told Conservatives, Tory ideas must be something more than mere opposition to Socialism. Instead, the supreme task of the Tory party must be to show England and most value Englishmen after the war as also values them today. The Times admits the risk of the growing denationalization of the great monopolies and restrictive trade associations that exist in Britain and says there must be State control of them.

General Giraud in a speech at Algiers, said he has prisoned 4,000 days in Denmark, and said the Nazi Gestapo in Russia during the first winter Winter there were admitted by the Germans themselves to exceed 1,750,000 men. The Nazis therefore planned their hopes on Africa and Russia was regarded as invincible.

Now Roosevelt has to face the Europe. The next are would be the invasion of France by a French army. Hitler is well prepared for conquests.

On the eastern front Soviet forces were reported to have made a salient division in the enemy's defenses in the vicinity of Demyansk and demolishing the tracks.

SAMMY WISHES HE HADN'T BEEN SO HASTY

Never be like Sammy Jay. Because you know it doesn't pay. Go, ask him if it isn't true. And hear what Sammy will say to you.

With all his might Sammy Jay wished that he hadn't been so hasty. Sammy Jay the third, that Chief Man Coyote had gone away and especially that he hadn't been in such a hurry to tell everybody. He felt that he didn't want to meet Peter Rabbit for everyone knew he was friend of Old Man Coyote. Sammy Jay was ashamed. Either they would laugh at him for being so easily fooled or else they would scold him for not being more careful.

So he sat in a big hemlock tree in Old Grey Forest not knowing what to do with himself until at last he was so lonely that he didn't care what happened to him. Then Sammy saw the rest of the little feathered people running around in a wildness from Hardly. And he knew from them that Chatterer the Red Squirrel had been telling everyone of Sammy's foolishness. Sammy felt very bad indeed. He was Sammy Jay, and he was ashamed Sammy Jay.

He had not wondered Chatterer of Old Man Coyote has gone a way also, quite as fake has Sammy Jay. This was what Sammy Jay did.

Sammy Jay said a word. He thought a word. He was afraid to say. He just turned on. As he passed the reflect of the Old Crow Hard he saw Old Man Coyote and Johnny Chuck.

"What Old Man Coyote promise you for telling so that the bad guy away" shrieked Johnny Chuck.

"He didn't promise me anything I made a mistake that all assigned Sammy and hurried on. Pretty soon Peter Rabbit caught sight of him.

Finance—Commerce—Markets

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, April 5 (CP)—Rail and industrial stocks hit peaks for nine to six years in today's market as buyers unleashed the heaviest buying orders in fifteen months.

The ticker tape speeded up at the novel in profit-taking periods and only was pronounced throughout. Gains ranged from major fractions to more than 3 points and favorites generally closed at or near the day's top figures.

Brokers found a combination of reasons for the strong recovery move which got under way about a year ago and with few interruptions has continued ever since. Month credit was given to the Russian war news, and the revival of the speculative and investment urge, prompted by sharply expanding idle funds, efforts to hedge against threatening inflation still are viewed as a factor.

The Associated Press average of sixty stocks today rose 8 of a point to 49.8 highest since May 8 1940. The fifteen-rail composite touched its best level since October 1937, with a jump of 1.1 points to 28.2. The market was one of the broadest in some time 947 individual issues being traded. Of these 303 were up, 131 down and 133 unchanged. Transfers totaled 2,617,820 shares, largest since December 19 1941. Last compared with 1,823,340 on Friday.

Rails again were buoyed by mounting earnings, sizable reductions in debt by many roads and hopes for increased or reinstated dividends. Preferential prospects helped steels and many other issues. Utilities were active but narrow.

Glancing Over Sport—

By JOE DELAHUNTY

WINNIPEGGERS SQUARE SERIES

Well, the Army is marching on to Winnipeg today on avenue Sherbrooke and the RCAF Bombers to continue the Allan Cup play-offs against the same-title foe for the Western Canada senior hockey diadem. The Peg machine clicked last night with power plays and won by three goals to boot, and therefore, should be alight favorites playing the rest of the series in their own backyard and before their home supporters. The airforce couldn't control the puck on the poor ice surface, as it was bouncing all over the place, but it was the same for both clubs so that's no alibi. Flying Officer Bill Ezard, and it was a big one at that, when Elmer Kreiter was cooling out in the penalty box and they assigned in two goals within ten seconds of each other. From then on, they outsmarted Victoria, most of the time and deserved their victory. Playing on a smaller surface in Winnipeg is expected to be a big help to the Troops, so none of you folks who have given up already, come out of your shell and remember the Calgary series . . . Ottawa Commandos came back to earth last night and pulled the Toronto Flying Greenshirts the also-rans as cup aliminations continued in the East. The club must have been given a fiery "pep talk" before the whistle for they were loose in the third period and shelled the RCAF net for three straight counters. But, at the same time the Commandos will have to do a lot of explaining about last Saturday's around trimming.

ODDS AND ENDS

Remember when Jess Willard was the heavyweight boxing champion of the world twenty-eight years ago yesterday afternoon when he defeated Champion Jack Johnson at Havana in sixteen rounds? Willard was the crown for four years when he was defeated in 1919 at Toledo by Jack Dempsey. Willard's last important fight was his knockout by Luis Firpo in 1923 . . . Also remember when, Montreal's Maroons, who dropped out of the National Hockey League in 1937 defeated the Toronto Maple Leafs eight years ago tonight for the second straight game in the Stanley Cup series and went on for their third straight, winning the cup. They won the league championship back in 1935 . . . Do you know that five years ago tomorrow Jackey Johnson Adams made six consecutive winners at the Bay Meadows track in California? He finished third in the first race and then released with the rest of the programme. His winners paid a total of $82.20 on $2 tickets . . . Here's a couple of sad selling stories from the Old Country. Pam Barton, outstanding English linksswoman was killed at Dunkirk. It has been reported that Marion Hollins, the United States national championship in 1921 also went from Great Britain, states Mal Black Wilson, one of England's finest enthusiasts, had an eye injuring a Nazi air raid. Both girls were favorites with American golf fans before during their several linksing before the war . . . Many fans who are closely following the Allan Cup play-downs are still wondering why the Victoria Commandos didn't show more a great reversal of form in the Allan Cup game against Toronto RCAF. Most of them think, and I will add to with them that the boys are simply playing for the gate receipts. That's about the only reason I can give for some reason, for the result of last Saturday's match.

FROM HERE AND THERE

Otto Graham's fan is quite upset because we left the Cleveland Rams settle Victoria eagers. He claims they are not American this half from Toronto. "The fellow is right, but due to a strict censorship order we are not permitted to mention where the eagers are located, so I guess that should satisfy the situation, we are placed in . . . Manager of the Oak Bay juvenile football team wires in to inform us that the boys were forced to skate through the mud against their much hatched opponents Vancouver seems to do what they like where Victoria is concerned." he stated. They also do, mister, look what they did with the basketball mess, so long ago . . . During his long career in the big leagues, Cecil Max Max No 1 pitching headache the eccentric Bobbe Waddell invited nine non-hitters, and missed the Hall of Fame in May, 1906, when the first batter to the plate laid down a bunt and beat it out for the only safety of the game. The fellow who ruined Bobbe's big chance that afternoon was none other than Ty Cobb. . . . Bobby Robinson, Kamloops on Winnipeg will be out on the coast for the Western Canada men's senior hoop final. If the hockey city comes through British Columbia will be seeing two favorites in action in Bunker Jackson and Jimmy Bardsley, while a Kamloops victory will see a squad headed by George "Porky" Andrews, former Blue Ribbon and Dominion star. . . . Mel Ott, manager of the New York Giants, is not yet thirty-four and is starting his seventeenth year under the big well.

Detroit Defeats Boston Squad, 4-3

Red Wings Rally in Last Period To Take Second Straight Game

DETROIT, April 5 (CP)—Detroit flashed back in the third period and blasted three goals past Claude Pratt, Boston netminder, to defeat Boston 4-3 and give the Red Wings their second straight victory in the final series for the Stanley Cup.

Trailing by 3-1 as the last period opened, the Wings surged back with the same fire and dash that gave them a 6-3 decision over the Bruins on Thursday and knotted the score at the 3-3-minute mark on Joe Carveth's goal. Twenty-six seconds later Carl Liscombe beaned a longer to put them ahead and Syd Howe made it 4-3 at 11 of the 3rd. Carveth's final tally at 16:38 was anti-climax. But the 17,927 fans who packed Olympia Stadium saw a Bruins team drastically different from the listless weary one that was drubbed in the first game.

Bruins came sharply and hustling at the time the Bruins counted the first tally of the night when Jack Crawford, injured defenceman who returned to action drilled a shot through seven pairs of legs from fifty feet out.

Bill Cowley also bagged his first goal than a minute later taking a pass from Bill Cowley and sinking it from almost all feet. Detroit fell behind immediately, Les Douglas scored at 17:06 and then came the fatal third period.

Game this series opened Monday night the Wings have flashed the red light over Brumkin's head eleven times. Two of the goals scored off his pads into the rage and he didn't touch two others.

Jack Adams' offensive-minded red shirts peppered him with thirty-one shots, but he handled safely while the Wings' Johnny Mowers was called upon so make only nineteen saves.

The Wings are aiming to rap the series and the cup in four straight games the same count by which Boston crushed Detroit in 1940. Both teams will board a train for Boston tonight. With the next two games scheduled there on Wednesday and Thursday.

Commissioner Hayden is positive the league will operate. He discounts rumours that Boston and the club owners favor co-operation of organizations for the duration, so that the Cleveland franchise might be transferred to Cincinnati.

Nevertheless he stands by his latest policy provided by the Boston output, with 100 college stars, the league finds itself faced for the first time with an important manpower question. The draft drew so many players in the league last season that it will be scrapped for now.

Most of the players eligible for the player draft already have been called to the prop a more important draft.

In drafting, most owners will take outstanding seniors in the first few rounds to establish negotiating rights to brilliant players who set forth after the war, and then will spend most players available for next Fall.

Two Star Defencemen of the Commandos

TWO defence benefits of the Ottawa Commandos stalking fatal visitors to win the Allen Cup and the Canadian senior hockey crown this season are Lorne Chabot, former Montreal Canadiens, the Commandos' RCAF kaki star on the left and Ken Reardon, ex-member of the Montreal Canadiens. The Commandos, 4-3 and 12-0 in the two games, drubbed the Toronto RCAF last night by winning the fourth game of the series. 5-3. This strong aggregation of "professionals" will meet the winner of tonight's game between the Ottawa RCAF and Halifax Flyers. The Commandos won the first two fixtures from Toronto, 4-3 and 12-0 and then dropped the third, 8-1 much to the surprise of everybody but regulars who made so win the Ottawa team for victory.

Latter played another sensational game for the middle season, covered and dropped the puck into the net. Bill Ezard, Cecil Brown and Joe Pinter from Indianapolis Cats as well as that American Hockey League team dropped the Calder Cup play-offs to Eddie Shore's Buffalo team.

Boston also will be a full strength, although the Bruins admittedly are weaker in personnel than the Wings. Jack Crawford showed he was back in shape by playing a great game Saturday and will be presented upon to relieve some of the burden from Oralie Frank Brimsek.

Commandos Reach Eastern Ice Final

Shibicky and Neil Colville Pace Team To Victory Over Toronto Airmen, 5-2

OTTAWA April 5 (CP)—Tonight the New Brunswick Hockey Shibicky and Neil Colville set the pace as Ottawa Commandos undumped Toronto RCAF 5-2 five rounds to move into the Eastern Canada Allen Cup semi-final.

Shibicky and three goals and Neil Colville figured in all of them, he slide-added a fourth himself in give Commandos, Quebec Bruins Hockey League champions, their third triumph in the best-of-five series, dropped the opener.

Bingo Kampman, erstwhile Toronto Maple Leaf, was the other Ottawa marksman, Ernie Dickens in the final period and Wally Wilson on the second. Joe Primeau's Torontonians, Ontario Hockey Association champions in the province for the second time, scored for Ottawa.

Victory did not come to Commandos without a fight. The Airmen team sent into the final frame all square, and blew the game wide open in the third. A scoring drive by Shibicky moved Commandos to the front early in the last period. They added the same up with two more tallies while Earle Bush and Dickens were striving penalties.

RCAF two man short, faded in the face of a furious Ottawa attacking attack. Bush had man of the game deep home moves and a lambitive multi-talent potent the has charming tactics. He swung at Bill Tree Leo Mantha when the game ended and as Murray was leaving the ice but no threatening incident all was quickly squelched.

Commandos now will meet the winner of the Ontario RCAF series between Ottawa and Halifax teams. Fifth and sixth games of the series are over

THERE may have been others but the last great military leader in England whom the people trusted upon entrusting with affairs of State was the Duke of Wellington, with results not altogether flattering to his reputation in Canada, after the last war. It did not occur to anybody that Sir Arthur Currie should be Prime Minister. And nobody has suggested that a similar honor awaits General Montgomery. He is different in the United States. Before he had left Britain, General MacArthur was being hooked as a President, President, partly through admiration for him as a soldier, partly no doubt, in embarrass President Roosevelt. The general has now declared that he has no political ambitions whatever and that when he returns to the United States he will continue as a soldier or pass into retirement. Probably the next President but United States ever had was its greatest professional soldier, General Grant, for example that no doubt occurred to General MacArthur.

TORONTO, April 5 (CP)—Maybe the war will effect some changes in lacrosse. Some of the Dominion rank has been taken over by the Government lacrosse magnis there are hardly enough for a place to play. It seems probable they'll play outdoor games and lacrosse has been given to an indoor playing surface smaller than the Pittsburgh Civic Arena with ten instead of seven a side.

Another wartime angle is the ban on manufacture of lacrosse balls for the duration. Vancouver however believes it has a sufficient supply for the present season.

Lacrosse is also the manpower shortage. There is a possibility of five teams on the Coast, however, with the famous New Westminster Salmonbellies and Vancouver Burrards definitely prepared to start. The services may provide another team and two other civilian teams are in prospect.

Vancouver teams sponsored by shipyards last season, Norvans and Wallaces, have withdrawn because of lack of interest in the yards.

In Ontario, Mimico - Brampton Combines, Marty Cup champions are ready for another season. Bilboes plan to compete again. But St. Catharines Hamilton and Owen Sound are indefinite.

HONEY PLAYED DON UNIFORMS

When Toronto Maple Leafs lost to Detroit in the Stanley Cup hockey semi-finals, four Leafs said goodbye to the big team for the duration. Dave Stewart and his Lakeshore linemate, Bud Pepper expect to be in uniform soon. Defenseman Bob Goldham is reported planning to enlist as once and Joe Kizkas will join the army in Midsummer. Bill Taylor also centre is awaiting outcome of his final medical examination. Capt. James Sutherland, top grand old man of hockey and a booster of Kingston, Ont. as site of an indoor ball of fame making twice-weekly broadcasts on Kingston's hockey history.

Leonard, former Canadian professional golf champion is only seventeen pro at the Vancouver Marine Drive Golf Club now. He works in a war plant five days a week.

TORONTO, April 5 (CP)—When Gordon Drillon long-time National Hockey League scoring ace was sold by Toronto to Montreal Canadiens last Fall he was the subject of much newspaper discussion. Sport writers claimed Toronto was well rid of Drillon, others that Canadiens made a good purchase. Gordon scored twenty-eight goals and twenty-three assists for the Habitants and here's what Bas Montreal Star writer Baz Bennett has to about this season's performance:

Gordon Drillon will rage whatever Drillon was a sound investment or not. Drillon produced more goals than anybody else in Canada. He also produced almost as much fan irritation. An artistic player he scored some of his goals with such a flourish that his attacking glitter obscured at times the fact that he was a non-paying passenger when it came to defending.

"Certainly Drillon may not be been a rara bargain, but, on the other hand, he gave value in entertainment for the outlay. Anyone who can produce so many goals should be allowed limitations and this main he was more of an asset than a liability."

USE CLUBS WITH THIS NAME LIE

It might be a good idea this Sunday before starting out to play golf to observe some clubs, not, mind, to see if they are in good condition but also as to the conformity of lie. Generally speaking about half the sets belonging to average players are not the graduated type but are, most of them picked up here and there as the years roll by, some of them of years. Oftentimes a golfer will purchase an iron set because it appears to his sense of sight and feel. Whether it actually derives the with the other clubs in his bag is beside the point. He likes the appearance and the feel of it in his hands.

In actual play however to lie is oftentimes as all odds with some of the other clubs that is requires a change in angles, technique and golf worthwhile results. As a consequence the golfer fails to get what anything remotely resembling a grooved or dependable swing. He is constantly attempting to adjust the ball the club to use. By the simple expedient of presenting the sole of the club flat on the ground with his foot he can tell which clubs are at variance with the lie best suited to his seemed method of swinging. Discarding those persons the club is developing a sound dependable swing.

Sports Roundup

By WILSON FULLERTON JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, April 6 (AP)—Probably you've heard about the mythical four-minute mile, but how about the two-minute 25 yard swim ... That's one the swimming coaches have dreamed about and brings up now is that Joe Wheatley argues that Ohio State's Billy Smith is the world's top 50 ... "He has the stroke to do 2.03 or 2.04," says Joe, and if he can get in competition for a few years, I wouldn't be surprised to see him do 2.20 in two minutes ...

When and if Gunder Haegg gets here next Summer, Asa Bushnell has no intention of trying to match him against Greg Rice in a revival of the Princeton invitation track meet.

Hearing a rumor that he might try it, Bushnell wisecracked, "When you have one, you have to invite a few customers, too ..."

Pfc. Evelyn Meyers, Army M.P. piece in the A.A.U. swimming championships. He started in the first heat of the Air Force Relays during the course he lost his trunks and had to get rescued by one of them. "Oh well," he commented as he climbed out of the pool, "it's a change from riding trains and checking up on passes."

Cardinals Have Line-Up Ready

CAIRO Ill. April 6 (AP)—Although most of the baseball teams are still experimenting with their line-ups, St. Louis Cardinals are in quite an excellent shape for manpower that it's possible today to predict their likely batting order.

Barring the unexpected—or the exit—homesickness or the call—the champions will open the National League season with a team much the same entirety of last year's players. No other club in either circuit can boast of a similar condition.

Tire's the way it appears that the Cardinals will go to bat against Cincinnati Reds April 15. Jimmy Brown, 3b, Johnny Hopp, 1b, Stan Musial lf, Walker Cooper, c, George Kurowski 2b, Buster Adams, cf, Martin Marion, ss, Harry Walker rf, Morton Cooper, p.

This is virtually the line-up used by Manager Billy Southworth. In his intra-squad games, and there's only one more to play, he has put the Cardinals—Adams, the speedy outfielder, has batted .308 for Barranquilla. He's a long-ball hitter of the type Southworth likes in the sixth slot of his batting order.

Back of this problem starting line-up, Southworth has a plethora of reserves. That again, is more than any other team manager can say.

"Mrs. Williams always asks the price of everything new that I happen to be wearing" said Mrs. Brown. Rather a cheek, don't you think?

"Decidedly" replied Mrs. Black. "That has also been tried on me recently!"

"She wanted to know how much I paid for this dress."

"What an inquisitive creature she must be. How much did you tell her?"

Famous Pianist Will Appear Here Friday

On Friday night, at the Royal Victoria Theatre music lovers of this city will have the opportunity of hearing that Titan among pianists—Josef Hofmann. His genius was manifested in great measure in the revival by that other Titan of his day Anton Rubinstein. Hofmann is with his wife he has to convert the piano into an orchestra from which he achieves all the varied richness of color and dynamics.

They are seemingly made hands for a pianist the fingers short, thick and spatulate. But they possess dexterity and speed. He has combined speed to be almost twice as fast as the average man of the protruding muscles.

Remarkably efficient hands they are too, for not only can they strum out chords of thunderous power or draw from the keys tones of enchantingly beautiful tone, but the dictates of his inventive genius they make drawings of manifold contrivances ranging from shock absorbers for automobiles to an out-burning Burner which he designed and had installed in his home eight years ago and is functioning perfectly to this day.

"I learned the value of mustard long before I was married," said Mrs. C. Whitmore of Regina, Sask. "When I was a child I often had convulsions when I was cutting a tooth, and my brother was affected in the same way. Mother used to keep a big basin of water on the back of the stove at night, and he soak it was a can of mustard. If either of us showed signs of trouble, she would douse the sufferer into a mustard bath, and that procedure was always a help in bringing about recovery. I've given my own children mustard baths to check colds and in fact the use of mustard is a family tradition in this house.

Mrs. Whitmore's Crump Treatment

"Shibby, one of my boys, has been subject to croup," continued Mrs. Whitmore. "When he gets a cold it takes the form of a croupy cough. I've found that putting on a mustard poultice is a great help in getting the condition relieved. Put this 1 min one tablespoon of mustard to two tablespoons of flour. A poultice made this way can help clear up an ordinary croupy cough in a night or two.

Useful in Summer Colds

"Most people take colds in summer, but I am very apt to take a cold on the summer," states Mrs. Whitmore. "My trouble always starts with a cold on the head and it works down into my chest. I find that mixed I put a poultice on my chest and a cold becomes serious and is dreadfully hard to shake off. I have found from experience that a mustard poultice is a great help under such conditions. Mustard helps to loosen up the tight chest and relieve it gets to the chest. With the help of mustard I find my summer colds clear up and are kept from hanging on or becoming a chronic cough.

"The Boy From Maine"

By KATHARINE BRUSH

CHAPTER LXVII

Bonnie never dressed in the daytime but trailed about the apartment in crumpled nightgowns unadequately covered by thin negligees. Moles clustered on her feet. The moles were lined with pink satin, and the linings were always rumpled and everything had lost half its luster. Bonnie's pretty face, in the morning, was puffy and dull, and the lines were always there. Bonnie was worn as he had told Rosalie today. All this meanwhile, Bonnie was trying to be a good wife. It was a cut-and-dried survival story. Bonnie'd read it himself in hundreds of magazines. Oof! It sounds grim", and sometimes, in the mirror he saw the record it had left. The great alcoholic fear he said to himself over

It wasn't quite like that. It was true that his face had hardened it had become a strong face full of purpose and determination and no longer pretty.

Radio had treated him and he had been supplying it out of his night club contacts, on a commission basis. He had discovered two personalities for radio and presently this had brought so profitably that he had quit the charity-kingpitter and opened up a Broadway office as a radio agent. His big client: the interviews always said "was his wife Bonnie Roberts, whose clothes and with monologues written for her time written by Hadley himself."

And that was still the past: there were the years from 1931 to 1938. Now he was programme director of a big network. It was an all-engrossing job, on which it was not unusual for him to work twelve hours a day, and this was not. And often Sundays too. Even after Bonnie knew off the job she, he was allegedly to relax and unwind but actually he go on talking think the breathing radio.

So that was the way it was with him: there was Bonnie and there was work. Occasionally, in the rare moments when he thought about himself, it seemed to him that the Bonnie who had once been a human being, who had sung to people and made them laugh, who had been capable of happiness and unhappiness that Bonnie had long since been destroyed in the grind of those two millstones: the sport and the mother. Bonnie and work.

OPERATING ON YOUR LIVER NOT CONSIDERED A GREAT RISK NOW

Perhaps one of your family has been found to have the severe form of cholecystitis, disease in which there is rapid heart beat, vomiting of bile, failure of appetite, gas, jaundice and pain in the right side. Or maybe you have gallstones, and a complete picture. Your physician may advise operation, whereas in a case of the same type of gallstones in another patient, you know that he has advised X-ray treatment, and in another case medical treatment.

Why should there be three methods of treatment for the same ailment?

One reason is that for the average individual surgery is considered best because the patient can withstand the operation and can be back at his job a sometimes within three weeks after operation. I have spoken of a gallstone patient who before operation had a pulse rate of 120 to the minute, was walked into my office three weeks after operation and found his pulse rate seventy-six.

Why then should anyone go to X-rays be given which may take months to get the results obtained by surgery?

There are two reasons. First, some patients naturally object to surgical operations; and second, some patients would not likely withstand operation well.

If by not taking risks, and risk is taken with Colon's alcohol treatment thousands of cases, to have a noted surgeon operate for removal of the gall bladder-gallstones. Today practically every hospital has one or several surgeons who perform this operation.

Thus the Lahey Clinic, Boston, in Annals of Surgery, reports 19,300 internal operations with a death rate less than one in every 100 operations. When we remember that the great majority of these cases are of the severe type of gallstones and many enter hospital in late stages of this disease, it can be seen how "safe" this operation has become. Dr. Lahey does not advise operation on cases that can be treated by medical and medicine even though operation would bring about a cure that as there is no fear of death in the patient's present condition, awaiting the result of rest and medical treatment involves no danger.

The thought then is that if rest and medical treatment do not bring about a cure the danger from operation is slight anyway.

Montgomery Scores Kayo

Stops Alvarez in The Fourth Canto

Montgomery weighed 137, Alvarez 135½.

Montgomery got in close just as the fourth round got under way and whipped over a left hook that turned the taciturn nineteen-year-old native of Denver. Montgomery promptly followed up a vicious right that landed flush on the jaw. Alvarez fell flat on his back and never stirred as Referee Maj. Arigo tolled off the count.

Montgomery was a top heavy 7-1 favorite.

Until Montgomery landed the knockout punch, Alvarez had done well, although the Philadelphia-begun had much the better of the infighting.

After a fairly even first round Alvarez got in several hard lefts in the second that cut Montgomery's mouth and drew blood.

In the third Alvarez opened a two-fisted attack that drove Montgomery into the ropes and had him covering up. Near the end of the round Montgomery came back strongly.

The paid attendance was announced as 4,868 and the gross gate $20,110.

The Bombing Restriction Committee—page pamphlet entitled Bombing Civilians—has just issued the Government and the RAF to abandon bombing of areas particularly on nights when aiming would be impaired by weather. It also asked them to stop violating the declared aim of bombing only military objectives.

A gathering signed by Prof. H. Stanley Jevons, British author and Fender Caldicott, prominent Quaker and included with the Mind, Goal in the Primes, Ambulance Unit during the Great War said the committee was formed in a number of people horrified at the heavy death toll of civilians in the 1,000-bomber raid on Cologne.

The pamphlet charged that Prime Minister Churchill and Air Marshal Sir Arthur Harris, chief of Bomber Command had listened to speeches and broadcasts that the German civilian populations were being deliberately attacked. It cited Sir Arthur's statement last July that Britain was going to smash the Third Reich from end to end.

The document said the committee did not object to precision bombing of military and industrial objects carried out under favorable conditions, but it protested against the inhuman and ineffectual practice of making air no defenceless civilians.
